Welcome Showers Bring Relief From Record Heat Wave

Rain last night heralded the break-up of the ten-day heat wave in Marion which was due to end throughout Ohio today with scattered showers and thunderstorms.

The temperature soared to 98 for the second straight day yesterday, equaling again the previous high set on June 20. At noon today the temperature was 84.

Rainfall yesterday afternoon and evening brought some relief, lowering the temperature 13 degrees here in one hour. It was a comfortable 70 last night.

High a year ago was 75 and the low 42

Rainwall was measured at .2 at the Marion weather station but some sections in the county had more rainfall.

Farmers of the state will welcome the rains forecast for today. The record-shattering heat wave has left their crops spoiling, withering or ripening prematurely in the sun. Southwestern Ohio counties were particularly hard-hit

Cleveland had seven deaths Thursday attributed to the heat, including that of an 11-month-old child. Two other deaths due to the heat were listed previously in the state.

Ironton and Portsmouth were the hottest cities in the state yesterday, with Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Columbus right behind.

107 in Portsmouth

Portsmouth had a bistering high of 107. Ironton had 102, its sixth straight day above 100. there has been no rain in Lawrence County since Aug. 17.

Cleveland sweated through its 10th straight day in which maximum temperatures exceeded 90 and the seventh day in a row in which a heat record was set.

It was 99 in Columbus, the fourth record set in 10 days, two of them 100 degrees.

In Cincinnati Archbishop Karl J. Alter called for special prayers for rain in churches and chapters of the Roman Catholic diocese.

Cool northern breezes and refreshing showers spread across the sun-baked Midwest today bringing happy relief from a prolonged heat wave.

Hot and humid weather, however, continued in wide areas in the eastern sections of the country. But there was hope of an early break, probably by tomorrow.

The cool air mass from Canada, heading eastward and southward, pushed back the torrid stagnant air that had held a tight grip over the Midwest for as long as 11 days.

Temperatures tumbled as much as 30 degrees as the cool air moved steadily across the parched mid-continent. A band of showers about 100 to 200 miles wide were general along the leading edge of the cool air from Wisconsin southward into eastern Iowa, northwestern Illinois, Missouri and northeast Texas.

Weather bureau officials said the cool mass would cover all of Michigan and Indiana by late today. There was indication that it would continue eastward and southward and bring relief to other heat-stricken areas

Showers Forecast

Showers were forecast for sections about 160 miles to the rear of the cooler air, extending over eastern Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

Chicago, sweltering with other areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast in the summer season's longest heat wave, got the welcome relief around midnight.

It was a hot and sticky 97, in Chicago yesterday, the 10th straight day of 95 degrees or higher. It continued muggy with readings in the 80's before midnight. But four hours after the cool air moved in, it was a delightful 63.

TAKING IT (N)ICE AND EASY. If you think you're melting in the heat, then just sympathize with this polar bear who has to go around in that fur coat. He finally had to flop over a huge cake of ice to cool off at the Baltimore, Md., zoo. Then he took a dip in the stream below.

Work To Resume Tuesday

Long Labor Day Holiday Starts Tonight for Many

Millions of Americans begin the long Labor Day week end tonight. After they leave the offices, shops and factories, some 40,000,000 of them are expected to pile into the family auto and head for the open roads.

The National Safety Council, which made the prediction for the number of cars on the road, also made an estimate that 400 persons would die in the traffic between tonight and Tuesday.

Many of the persons across the country will be trying to beat the oppressive heat which has gripped most of the nation for the last two weeks. They will be going to lakes, beaches, mountains, anyplace where it might be cool.

U.S. Support Of Adenauer Starts Furor

Chancellor's Political Opponents Accuse Dulles of 'Meddling'

BONN, Germany (AP)—A charge of American "interference" exploded today as a major issue in West Germany's bitter election campaign.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles touched off the new furor with a statement yesterday at his press conference that defeat of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government in next Sunday's voting would cause confusion and delay solution of the German problem.

May Boomerang

The endorsement apparently was intended to boost Adenauer's pro-Western regime, but instead it may boomerang against the chancellor. were worried about their government's embroilment in the campaign.

Whatever the result, the statement overnight became the hottest —if not the biggest—issue of the entire campaign for election of the 484 members of Parliament.

The Socialist party, chief opposition to Adenauer's Christian Democrats and two allied parties, pounced angrily on Dulles' remarks.

"This is a vicious attempt by the American government to interfere in the German election," the Socialist party protest said. "One of the most shocking political interferences in this election campaign.' Socialist Chairman Erich Ollenhauer echoed in a campaign speech last night.

Warns U.S.

"The American government must not complain if this causes an anti-American reaction from the German people," Ollenhauer warned.

It is no secret that most American officials hope Adenauer will win and approve his program of rearmament in close alliance with the West. By contrast, they oppose the Socialists' advocacy of neutrality in the cold war. The choice

Dean Comes Back, Tells of Capture, 3 Years as Prisoner

U.S. General Appears Ten Years Older

Long Period in North Korean POW Camp, Isolation, Take Toll

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP)—Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, white-haired and thin after more than three years in Communist prisons, today rode a Russian-built jeep back to freedom and to a heart-warming welcome by the first Americans he had seen since his capture.

Dean, who won the Medal of Honor fighting beside his men in the streets of Taejon, had aged 10 years in appearance. He came back wearing a dust covered blue cotton suit, brown sneakers, yellow shirt, a red tie and a wry grin.

First in Three Years

He said he had not seen another American since July 21, 1950.

"It is certainly good to see so many fellow citizens," Dean said warmly. "You all look better to me than I do to you, I'm sure."

At this processing center the tanned old soldier told of his capture in the midst of the swirling confusion of the war's dark early days . . . of sleepless days . . . 68 hours once—of questioning during which he wore out relays of Red interpreters . . . of the terrible isolation of more than three years.

Much of the time, he said, the Communists gave him nothing to read and no pencils or paper. He spent his lonely days working mathematical problems in his head.

Still Retains Wit

Dean did not lose his dry wit . . . it crackled frequently as he talked with newsmen.

The general was greeted by high ranking officers and fighting men. He beamed as the cheers rang out.

He arrived in the last ambulance to come from Panmunjom and after routine processing was flown to the evacuation hospital at Seoul. The Air Force said Dean probably would be flown to Tokyo tomorrow.

The 54-year-old general, a veteran of almost 30 years in the Army, said he wandered a month through Korea trying to reach American lines. For 20 days he went without food. Then came his capture, long marches and hours of questioning.

Wears Out Interrogators

The Communists used several teams of interrogators but only two interpreters, he said.

"The first time they questioned me 68 hours," Dean said. "I think the interpreters just wore out."

"The next time it was only 44 hours. The third go was 32 hours."

"I was very thin at the time. It hurt me to sit down. I sat on my hands until they puffed up.

"They were going to punish me as a 'war criminal' for my activities as military governor of South Korea."

Dean said he met several Communists whom he had seen earlier in various positions in South Korea.

Dean said he became separated from the men of the 24th Division which he commanded on July 21, 1950.

Surrounded 5 Times

"On five occasions while trying to get back to my division I was surrounded by North Koreans or local boys who had been given guns by North Koreans and who called

AMERICAN GENERAL RELEASED. Maj. Gen. William F. The 24th Division commander hadn't seen another American since his capture July 21, 1950.

Largest Group Yet

275 Americans Slated For Return Tomorrow

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Reds finally freed U.S. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean today and promised a record-breaking 275 Americans for tomorrow, the next to last day of the Korean War prisoner exchange.

Caked with dust, his hair now white, Dean rode a jeep back to freedom—No. 91 of 95 Americans freed today.

Three long and lonely years of Red captivity were behind the gaunt former commander of the 24th Division.

Spokesmen said Dean would be flown to Japan Saturday after a checkup at a military hospital in Seoul.

Goes To Japan Saturday

In a ceremony at the hospital, President Syngman Rhee personally pinned on Dean's chest South Korea's highest military award, the Taeguk Medal with gold star.

The 275 Americans coming back Saturday will be by far the largest number returned on any single day.

They will bring the total of Americans returned to 3,486, well above the 3,313 the Reds promised before the exchange began Aug 4. And there may be more Americans in the final day's exchange Sunday The Reds have not given any figures for that delivery.

Nearly 500 Still Held

Seven U.S sergeants returning Friday estimated there were still between 450 and 500 Americans in Kaesong, the Red collection center for prisoners to be repatriated.

The Communists also delivered 5 British and 200 South Koreans Friday and promised 25 British and 13 South Koreans Saturday.

The Allies and Reds agreed Thursday to end the huge swap with Sunday's exchange. The Reds said that if any unforseen difficulties arise, they would notify the Allied command Saturday.

The remaining two days are expected to bring back a special group of Americans—men used by the Reds in their germ warfare propaganda.

The Communists broadcast alleged "confessions" by American fliers during the war that they had dropped germ bombs. The charges were denied stoutly by the Allied Command, which accused the Reds of torturing the fliers to extort the "confessions."

Chadwick Crosses Channel in Record Time, Starts Back

WISSANT, France (AP) — Florence Chadwick, San Diego stenographer, swam across the English Channel from Dover, England, in the record time of 14 hours, 42 minutes today and then immediately started her return swim.

She hopes to be the first ever to make a non-stop roundrip swim of the channel.

Actually Miss Chadwick did come ashore briefly in France — just long enough to eat an orange and take some sugar. Then she waded back into the water "to see how much further I can swim."

Although she said she was not tired she expressed little hope of completing the return to Dover.

On the way east she said she was stung by jelly fish but other than that felt very good and was not especially tired.

Although the finish was made in flat seas the first part of the swim began last night at 6:21 p.m. at St. Margaret Bay in rough and rolling swells.

Lodge To Ask U.N. Hold Up On Red China

Issue Over Seating Communists May Be Delayed Another Year

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N Y. (AP)—The United States will propose that the coming U. N. General Assembly postpone the question of seating Red China for another year, informed quarters said today.

These sources said the United States already has consulted some delegations and is confident the Assembly will sidetrack the issue, at least until its 1954 session.

Soviets Want Action

Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky served notice two weeks ago that he would press to seat the Peiping regime when the Assembly opens its three-month 1953 session Sept. 15.

Since then the Soviet newspaper Pravda has been giving the China representation question a big build-up It insisted that the seating of the Chinese Communist government in the U. N. is "an absolute precondition" to the preservation and consolidation of international peace.

The Americans, however, have decided to follow the same procedure they used last fall to avoid a showdown on the seating of the Chinese Reds. At that time, the United States succeeded in pushing through a resolution saying simply that the Assembly would postpone for the duration of its seventh session consideration of all proposals to exclude Nationalist China and seat Red China.

Wins Easy Victory

The United States won an easy victory then because the Chinese Communists were fighting U. N forces in Korea. Many of the 17 U. N. members which have recognized the Peiping regime voted for postponement. The U. S. proposal was adopted 42-7 with 11 nations abstaining. Only the five Sov-

Senators Flay Wilson's Slash In Air Strength

$750 Million Cutback Shocking, Dangerous, Hill, Stennis Claim

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Democratic senators today labelled a reduction in the Air Force's production program "shocking" and "dangerous," and Sen. Potter (R-Mich) asked for disclosure of all the facts involved in the 750 million dollar cutback.

Senatorial criticism began to erupt with publication of reports, later modified that plans to purchase 1,000 planes had been cancelled. The aircraft reduction is apart from the five billion dollars cut earlier this year from the Air Force budget.

However, James H. Douglas, acting secretary of the Air Force, told newsmen the striking power of the Strategic Air Command would not be effected "materially" by the reduction, which he said was not an economy move.

Instead, he declared, it followed from revised estimates of what the Air Force needs and will release money for other types of aircraft, some perhaps to be obligated this fiscal year. Douglas also said that while some existing contracts were affected, it was mainly future aircraft procurement plans that were hit

Secretary of Defense Wilson, announcing the reduction in St.Louis yesterday, said changes were being made "so we can spend the money for the right thing at the right time and for the right purpose." He declared the reduction would not affect the current production rate of 1,000 airplanes a month, nor prevent the Air Force from reaching its goal of 120 wings

Sens. Hill (D-Ala), a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Stennis (D-Miss), an Armed Services Committee member, voiced doubts that sufficient new orders will be forthcoming to prevent a reduction in over-all planned air strength.

Hill said in an interview he regards the contract cancellation as "a shocking repudiation of the commitments made to Congress by Secretary Wilson that there would be no reduction in plane production."

Hill declared, "This reduction seems to have been made in the same careless spirit in which the previous five billion dollar cut was made in Air Force appropriations requests.

"It is striking that only two weeks ago we confirmed the fact that the Russians had exploded a hydrogen bomb."

Six U.S. Jets Crash in Japan

Five Pilots Safe, One Missing; Blame Storm

TOKYO (AP)—Six American jet fighters crashed in western Japan today after running out of fuel in 'Vile weather," the Air Force said.

Five pilots were reported safe, but the sixth was still missing late tonight.

The Air Force said five Sabres were lost in one flight and an F84 Thunderjet was lost in another The Sabre is the hottest U. S. fighter plane on regular duty; the Thunderbolt is slightly older.

The Air Force said three pilots crash-landed with only minor injuries, and two others parachuted and were listed as "probably safe."

The sixth—one of the Sabre pilots—was missing somewhere in the same general area where the others went down.

The Air Force blamed a violent weather front that built up suddenly and slapped a lid over the jet's Japan bases.

Unable to find a hole in the dense clouds, the jets finally ran out of fuel.

"They were all equipped for instrument landings," an Air Force spokesman said, "but they have a very limited fuel capacity. The weather was vile and apparently they could not make normal instrument approaches."

Psychologists Have Answer

Forgetful? Temper Up? You Can Blame the Heat

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

CLEVELAND (AP)—Psychologists today took a look at human reactions to heat waves and said:

Your "forgettery" probably goes up, so don't worry that you're going nuts. Your efficiency and ability to make decisions go down.

Remember that heat can kick up irritability which can make you shout at your children, wife or husband, or your boss.

Maybe it's a good thing to have the weather to gripe about. You can take out last-straw gripes on old man climate rather than someone important.

These were some of the tips from psychologists attending the 61st annual meeting of the American Psychological Association opening here today.

Actually it appears that few if any studies have been made of what heat waves do to humans. No one seems to have compiled statistics, for instance, on whether heat waves kick up crimes or divorces or highway accidents, or job firings.

But from general principles and allied research, experts offered some heat wave tips.

Heat saps energy, makes you tired. But fatigue is more than just a physical condition, said Dr. Paul Torance, who directs some psychological research at Stead Air Force Base, near Reno, Nev., site of the Strategic Air Command's advanced survival school. There airmen are trained to survive under varied conditions of heat, cold and other conditions.

Mental attitude is important, he said If you think you are nearly exhausted, you may refuse to move and help yourself. At the other extreme, in actual war ex-

Young Farmer Slays 3 Over Wheat Cutting

ABINGDON, Va. (AP)—An argument over cutting wheat, police said, led a young tenant farmer to knock out three persons near here yesterday with a five-foot piece of pipe, then slug them again to make sure all three were dead.

Authorities planned to file three charges of murder today against Wallace Junior Elam, 24, quoted by Commonwealth's Attorney Volney Campbell as saying he killed the three persons after the argument over wheat-cutting.

Dead were Walter E. Pratt, 59; his wife, Mrs. Mary Pratt, 61; and James Meadows, 65. Elam lived on the Pratt farm in Washington County about five miles from Saltville. Meadows ran a nearby store.

Campbell said Elam told him he went to the Pratt home with a gun and was arguing with the couple when Meadows saw the quarrel and came to the rescue of the Pratts with the piece of pipe used for digging post holes.

Elam took the iron bar away from Meadows, knocked him unconscious and then went into the Pratt home, where Pratt shot him through the shoulder with a rifle, the prosecutor said. Elam said he then knocked Pratt down and followed Mrs. Pratt into the yard, where he knocked her down, Campbell said.

The prosecutor quoted Elam as saying he then went to all three of his victims and struck them again until he was certain they were dead. Campbell said Elam told him he had been arguing with the Pratts all day.

A LaRue Marine pilot, Captain Keith Fields, will take part in the National Aircraft Show in Dayton Sept. 5, 6 and 7 in celebration of the 50th year of aviation progress.

A reservist, Capt. Fields is serving as a jet fighter pilot with Marine Fighter Squadron 533 of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing at the largest Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N. C.

His squadron will lead an aerial program depicting the broad capabilities of Marine aviation to the general public through airborne demonstrations and ground displays.

Marine jet fighter bombers — the F2H-4 "Banshee," the F9F "Panther," and the F-3D "Skyknight" — will team up with Sikorsky helicopters and propeller-driven Corsairs to display the versatile air power of the Flying Leathernecks. In the show they will conduct precision air-ground operations with a reinforced company of Marine troops.

Capt. Fields, 31, entered the Marine Corps in October of 1942. He is a graduate of Ohio State University with a BS degree in Science. Capt. Fields is married to the former Helen J. Root of Columbus and they and a daughter, Susan, 4, are presently residing in Havelock, N. C.

He served with a fighter squadron in the South Pacific during World War II and holds two Distinguished Flying Crosses and five Air Medals. Capt. Fields is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Fields of LaRue.

Sales Tax Receipts Increase in County

Sale of prepaid tax receipts for Marion County for the week ending Aug. 22, 1953, were listed on State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy's weekly report as $20,927, while for the corresponding week last year the figure was $12,278.

Releasing statewide figures for the week ending Aug. 22, 1953, the treasurer's office reported cash receipts of $2,863,492, and a grand total of $26,801,640 in sales tax collections from July 1 to Aug. 22.

In the corresponding periods of 1952, cash receipts were $2,575,466, and the grand total was $22,238,041.

The report shows that the previous fiscal year which ended June 30, 1953, witnessed the largest twelve-month total ever collected in sales taxes, exceeding $188,000,000. Collections in July and August, 1953, are running at a rate even higher than the corresponding weeks in 1952.

Magic of Romance

Biarritz Comes to Street in Manhattan

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Helen sat on the tenement stoop at twilight waiting for Joe.

The heat from the great summer stove of Manhattan hammered at her, and she tried to fan it away with a folded newspaper.

When she saw Joe coming down the sidewalk, his collar open, his coat dangling limply over one arm, she put the paper on her knees and bent her head over it, as though absorbed.

Joe slumped down silently at the other end of the stoop and watched her. After a moment Helen lifted her head, faked a squeal and said, "Oh, Joe, you startled me."

"Don't give me that stuff," said Joe, crossly. "Why do girls sit around thinking up phoney things to say? You saw me coming."

They looked at each other warily, trying to decide whether it was too early in the evening to quarrel. Then both decided it was too hot.

"What're you reading?" asked Joe, reaching for peace.

"Oh, about the big party that rich old bird, the marquis"—she glanced down at the newspaper and spelled the name—Marquis de C-i-e-v-a-a-s in Biarritz. That's a place on the Riviera."

"Yeah," said Joe, "but which place—the one on the east Riviera or the Hudson Riviera?"

Helen laughed. Joe always said such crazy things.

"Oh, it must have been wonderful," said Helen dreamily. "Hundreds of famous people were there, and they wore costumes. They had lace-covered benches to sit on. And they even had pedigreed cattle and sheep wandering around among the guests on the lawn. Wasn't that a cute idea?"

"Sure," said Joe. "People get tired of seeing nothing but pedigreed pink elephants at parties."

"It must have been exciting," Helen went on. "Elsa Maxwell rode in on a donkey, and a French dancer arrived on a camel. But if I could have gone to the party, I'd have come on a big pale white horse, the kind you see at the circus and arch their necks and look so proud."

"Not me," said Joe. "I'd have galloped up on a boa constrictor."

"I thought boa constrictors are something like snakes," replied Helen. "Do they have legs?"

"Well," said Joe grimly, "they will have by the time I get invited to a party like that one."

"They had more than 2,000 bottles of champagne — real champagne. And simply tons of caviar. Do you like caviar, Joe?"

"No. The kind of money they charge for that stuff, they ought to be able to get rid of the fishy flavor."

"Well, I think I'd give a year of my life to go to a party like that," sighed Helen. "The memories would be worth it. It said in the paper that old Mr. . . uh. . old Mr. De c-u-e-v-a-s must have spent about $100,000 on the party. Can you imagine spending $100,000 in a single night?"

Joe couldn't at the moment. He was fingering the two subway tokens in his pocket.

"Honey, I got bad news for you," he said. "We can't go to the movies tonight. I lost my last $5 on a bet in the office."

The dreams of Biarritz receded. Helen began fumbling in her small purse and said, "Let me treat, Joe."

"No," he said stubbornly. "You've done that too many times already."

"Please," she whispered. "You can pay me back when we're married. It's such a good picture tonight. All about adventure in Africa. And on the way home we can stop off for a beer and a sandwich."

"Corned beef or cheese?"

"Cheese," said Helen practically. "That's all we can afford tonight."

"It's a deal," said Joe, "if you let me drink the beer from your slipper. I hear they always do that in the big leagues."

If you do, all you'll get is foam goofy. I'm wearing toeless sandals."

As they stepped from the stoop, Helen put her hand in Joe's arm, and he squeezed it. Joe looked up at the same stars that shine on tenements and Biarritz.

"I wish he was here," he said.

"Who?"

"Old Mr. De c-u-e-v-a-s," spelled Joe.

"What for?"

"Because," said Joe. "He sounds like a guy who enjoys parties—and he's sure missing a wonderful one tonight."

Helen reached up and took his face in her hands and pulled him down and kissed him—and didn't care what the neighbors thought.

Voters League Head Speaks To Kiwanians

Mrs. Helen Axe Tells Of Purposes, Work of Women's Organization

Mrs. Robert Axe, president of the Marion branch of the League of Women Voters spoke at the Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday at Hotel Harding

Mrs. Axe explained the objective of the League was to give women a chance to inform themselves on political and national questions.

She said the League is a nonpartisan organization which promotes participation in government by more citizens. The group never supports or opposes any political candidate, but does urge the members to take an active interest in one of the political parties.

The League was started in 1920, shortly after the ratification of the 19th amendment gave women the right to vote. It is a national organization. National, state, and local boards govern its operation.

For the last three years, the group has been in Marion. During that time, members have helped bring many issues before the public. They also have instituted a special program to bring the records and platforms of various candidates to the voters.

The League has helped people register by providing special services to the sick, invalids and others who ordinarily would not have a chance to fulfill the registration requirements.

They also provide transportation of voters to the polls for those who have no other means of getting there, Mrs. Axe said.

There was one guest at Wednesday's meeting. He was visiting Kiwanian R. C. Ulmer of Bucyrus.

Victim of Holdup Is Freed by Nose

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An orange juice stand was held up last night right under the noses of the police, but it was the nose of the victim that extricated him from his predicament.

Mike Lebel's stand is across the street from Wilshire Division station That didn't keep two gunmen from venturing in through the back door, taking $56, taping Lebel's hands and feet and dumping him under the counter.

Lebel squirmed to the phone, used his teeth on the receiver cord and dialed the operator with his nose.

The cops trotted across the street and cut him free.

$5,830,500 in 4 Sessions

Operation of Legislature In Ohio Is Growing Costly

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio legislatures spent $5,803,500 since 1947 to run four sessions and operate their legislative halls and offices

State Auditor James A. Rhodes came up with the figures today at the request of an office holder.

The period covered began in 1947 when the 97th General Assembly met and ended last June 30 during the session of the 100th General Assembly.

The 100th took final adjournment Aug. 7 Some expenses of that session will show up in totals for the fiscal year that began July 1 and will end next June 30. The Legislature meets every two years.

The state operated on calendar years in 1947 and 1948. Total legislature expense those years was just over $1,364,300. The House spent nearly $945,000 of that total and the Senate about $419,000.

In 1949, the state switched to a fiscal year beginning July 1. The cost of running the 98th General Assembly that met during the first half of 1949 ran more than $810,000. The House spent more than $562,200 of that sum.

The next two fiscal years ending June 30, 1951, included the 99th legislative session that met in the first half of 1951. Total cost for that session and the biennium was slightly more than $1,703,000. The Senate accounted for less than $500,000 of that amount.

For the two fiscal years ended last June 30, that included most of the 100th legislative session, the total was more than $1,952,600. The House spent about $1,273 300 and the Senate more than $679,300.

The House of Representatives customarily has about 100 more members than the Senate. The 100th had 136 representatives and 33 senators.

Major item of expense was the pay of legislators and employes, including chaplains in both the House and Senate Personal service totals for the first six months of the 100th General Assembly were $627,890 for the House and $250,032 for the Senate.

Other expenditures went for telephone and other communications, postage, express, printing, cleaning, repairs and the like.

Air conditioning of the legislative halls, committee rooms and offices for the 100th cost more than $156,500.

Range of Mosquitoes Said Only 100 Yards

BALTIMORE (AP)—If you're bitten by a mosquito on your front lawn, it's probably your own fault.

So warned Health Commissioner Huntington Williams last night in telling Baltimoreans they should get rid of any stagnant water around.

Williams explained that mosquitoes seldom range beyond 100 yards of the water they were born in. And the one that stung you on your lawn was born, grew up and—unless a strong wind comes along—will die within a 100-yard area.

Gen. Wedemeyer Predicts Continued Soviet Aggression

TORONTO, Ont. (AP)—Retired U.S. Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer says that now the Korean War appears over, it is reasonable to assume Russia-inspired aggression will turn some other part of the world into a battleground.

Wedemeyer told a news conference here yesterday that Indochina would likely be the next trouble spot. He added that he couldn't rule out the chance of further fighting in Korea or new outbreaks in Western Europe or Iran.

The 56-year-old general, who commanded the China theatre of war from 1944 to 1946, is now a high official of a U.S. manufacturing concern. He came here from New York to visit the Canadian National Exhibition.

Minister Makes Use Of Record Heat Wave

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey's record shattering heat wave prompted the Rev. Paul L. Jewett to put up this sign in front of the Emory Methodist Church, where he is pastor.

"Now that you know how hot hell is, what are you going to do about it?"

Kenton Favored for 'Y' District Headquarters

Special to The Star

A letter signed by 18 business men here has been sent to Harold Denison, area executive of the National Council of the YMCA. The project was officially brought to the attention of the community when associate area executive, David H. New Pipelines Will Supply Jet Bases In Western Europe

PARIS (AP)—Construction is scheduled to begin this fall on 1,875 miles of pipelines to speed jet fuel to NATO forces in nine West European nations.

Officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announcing last night that work would be started soon, said the project would cost 100 million dollars. The network will tie in with a 400-mile pipeline the United States plans to build across France to West Germany.

The lines will feed the 125 airfields NATO plans to complete by the end of the year in France, Belgium, Holland, West Germany, Norway, Denmark, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Gen. Wainwright

The death of Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, famous for his last-ditch stand on Corregidor early in the war with Japan, will help his countrymen to understand his self-sacrificing role in that conflict.

Someone had to stand by to reap the whirlwind of a military defeat.

In reviewing what happened when he was assigned the grim duty of surrendering the garrison in Corregidor, those who now mourn his passing will mark the passing of an illusion.

Before Pearl Harbor and Corregidor, Americans could believe with good cause that their armed forces were insuperable wherever they chose to put their best foot forward. After Pearl Harbor and Corregidor, there was a period of intensive disillusionment.

This was followed, in turn, by a reaction from the frustration and bitterness of defeat. The United States buckled down to redeem itself. Gen. Wainwright and the Americans who had been captured with him by the Japaneses were being abused in prison camps. Gen. MacArthur was starting his long return from a remote refuge in New Guinea. There was work to be done—and it was done. A symbolic redemption occurred when Gen. Wainwright returned to this country to receive the plaudits of his fellow citizens. But things would never be the same. The illusion was gone.

The United States is now waiting for another new national power in the Pacific to return another one of its captured generals—William Dean. Things will never be the same.

The 17th Star

There's something to shout about at this year's State Fair in Columbus, something to stir every visitor with pride.

A gigantic pageant, "The 17th Star," relates Ohio's progress from the mound builders to today in sesquicentennial celebration. Our star in the U.S. flag shines bright and with glory.

As Gov. Frank J. Lausche remarked, it is a wondrous lesson for all of us but particularly for our boys and girls, depicting "the homespun, log cabin beginning of the state and impressing them that they are really pioneers in their own times and must be ready to serve and develop the state that nutured them."

Pulitzer prize winner Paul Green, an expert on local and regional drama, wrote the script. More than 500 are in the cast performing on a stage 243 feet long and 80 feet deep.

More than 10,000 spectators are expected to see each of the 12 impressive performances. Done in 9 acts and 52 scenes, the tremendous production follows the early settlers in their Indian and legislative problems and shows Ohio growing up through the Civil War days and Industrial Revolution, concluding on a note of faith for the future.

Pass the orchids to all who had a part in the planning or in presenting this pageant . . . pass the orchids to Ohio, the 17th star.

Everybody—Go Home!

Lagest variation on a familiar theme is a sign beginning to appear on walls in North Korea: Chinese—GO Home. Prisoners of war returning from North Korea report violent hatred of the Chinese allies who used the Korean war as an excuse to invade a weak country.

Eventually, North and South Koreans may be reunited by their shared determination to get rid of the invaders. Throughout the world, resentment of foreigners meddling in places where they are not wanted has become a primary political force.

"Yankees" are not the only ones being invited to go home. The French are being invited to get out of Indo-China. The Dutch have worn out their welcome in the Netherlands East Indies. The British have left India and are aware of a shortage of hospitality in South Africa.

The Russians and their stooges are being urged to take their hats and hurry home from all the satellite countries of Europe. It is not so much that there is a resurgence of isolation as that there is a reaction from intervention. A large part of the world's population wants nothing so much as to be let alone until sometime in the 21st century.

Blue-Ribbon Risks

Best news for safe drivers since the era of sudden death and fender-bending was ushered in during the thirties has come quietly from the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters

The bureau's 213 member companies have agreed on a new method of classifying clients according to seven degrees of risk. This will replace the three-way classifications now in use.

Blue-ribbon risks will be pleasure drivers. Worst risks will be under-25 drivers who are not subject to any family discipline. Auto insuance for them will cost 2½ times as much as the rate for the blue-ribbon risks.

Between the top and bottom will be five other classifications.

Insurance rates will penalize drivers who go to and from work over distances of more than 10 miles if public transportation is available. In this way, the organized underwriters hope to relieve some of the urban congestion which has been adding to their actuarial worries.

Nixon's Stand on Korea

By David Lawrence

Vice President Reaffirms Views of Last August

Vice President Nixon's speech before the American Legion convention, insofar as he reaffirmed his approval of the Truman decision to intervene in Korea, got wide attention.

The denunciation which he made of those who hide behind the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer questions before congressional investigating committees got scant notice.

Mr. Nixon pointed out, for instance, that while a bank teller might refuse to answer questions as to his possible connection with a robbery of the bank on the ground that he might incriminate himself, the bank directors would hardly keep such a man in their employ — and, if they did, the public would soon lose confidence in such a bank.

Various universities recently have manifested their concurrence in that concept of the self-incrimination plea, though other institutions have been reluctant to agree with it.

Incidentally, the vice president's ideas on Korea go much further than the question of approving the Truman decision to intervene. Since Nixon is now a member of the National Security Council, his thoughts on Korea take on much more importance than when he was a candidate for office, especially in view of what Secretary Dulles says might happen in Asia if hostilities are resumed.

This correspondent asked Nixon if he still held the views which he expressed in a copyrighted interview which appeared in "U.S. News & World Report" in August 1952. He reread the section of the interview relating to Korea and then replied: "I most certainly do."

Here is what Nixon said at that time in a question-and-answer exchange.

"I do say this in relationship to the Korean War. The decision to go into Korea was right. I favored it at the time and I don't intend to change my position now simply because it might be the political thing to do.

"I don't subscribe to the views of some of my good friends on the Republican side who refer to the Korean War as Truman's war in the sense that we should not have gone into Korea.

"But, by the same token, I believe that the administration must assume the responsibility for the course of events which made it necessary to go into Korea.

I believe also that the decision to go into Korea was right only if we were prepared for the consequences of going in, and I mean by that, that we should have gone into Korea only if we were prepared to send our men there with the weapons to win and the right to win as far as policy is concerned.

"Q—You believe, then, that we didn't use our maximum power in Korea?

"A—At the time Gen. MacArthur returned from the Pacific, I shared his view in the sense that I think that, when we had superior power in Korea a year and a half ago, we should have used that power to bring the Korean conflict to a successful military conclusion.

I think the fact that we did not use that power then caused our present difficulty where, due to the built-up of Red air strength during the period of the Korean truce talks, we are no longer able to force a military decision in Korea.

"Q—You think we should have bombed Manchuria?

"A—The minimum program would have been this: a complete military blockade of the China coast — naval blockade, air blockade. Second, removing the blockade which we have imposed on the island of Formosa, and I mean by that not that I think that Chiang's troops on Formosa could launch then, or even now, an effective invasion of the South China coast, but because the threat of invasion would inevitably have diverted hundreds of thousands of Red Chinese troops from Korea to the South China coast.

"As an example, during World War II, in 1942 and early 1943, the Germans knew that we couldn't possibly have launched an assault across the channel, because of the German divisions had to sit there, across te channel, because of the threat that existed.

By contiuing to blockade Formosa, we are giving the Red Chinese the green light to move their troops from South China to the Korean battle front.

"And, third, it seems to me that a basic error was made when we did not allow all the military installations in Northern Korea to be bombed. I refer to Rashin, which has since been bombed, and other installations close to the Yalu.

"As to whether or not we should have bombed across the Yalu, I think that these decisions should have been made first, and if that would have not brought a military conclusion, then certainly consideration should have been given to bombing across the Yalu after warning the Red Chinese of the consequences of continued aggression.

"In any event, I say that we are now in what can be called an impossible position due to the fact that we have gone through truce negotiations, negotiations during which we've already lost over 30,000 casualties, and during which the enemy has strengthened his air force to the extent that we can no longer force a decision.

"Q—It is not a successful war, then, is it?

"A—No — not militarily."

Last Look Around

By TRUMAN TWILL

When I was a smaller boy than I am now, with more hair and fewer inhibitions, I used to take one last look-around before Labor Day.

There were so many things to be seen for the last time until the next summer—the beech tree in the big woods with my initials carved in the bark, the cozy quarters under the back porch where such precious possessions as hockey clubs, coaster wagons and hoops were kept;

The shack covered with tar paper in the elder thicket and the other hideaway in the apple tree at the far end of the yard, the place in the gutter where the best grade of chewingtar bubbled out of a pavement seam;

The pool in the creek where patience invariably was rewarded with a catfish, the abandoned nest of the catbird in the lilac bush back of the garage, the hidden spring at the foot of a knoll in the little woods;

The abandoned house behind a thicket on the road that went to the city pest-house, then still in use, the cooler in the dairy owned and operated by my best friend's father;

The stretch of sandy road at the bottom of the Big Hill which was the ultimate test of bike-riding skill, the concrete ramp at the new schoolhouse that seemed to have been designed for roller skaters;

The elderberry patch where the best stems could be found for the best beanshooters and whistles, the swimming hole in Harman's Creek which was only a few yards from the highway yet concealed from passing traffic;

The machine shop run by Mr. Kefler on E Elm Street, where a boy was on the same footing with any other casual visitor, Mrs. Balzer's kitchen shelf where every other day there would be a tantalizing array of fresh doughnuts;

The camping site an hour's walk away at the Ledges, the cold, sweet water to be had for the taking from a pitcher pump at the crossroads store on the way to the Ledges;

The truck garden where seasonal employment was to be had for asking until the end of the smallberry season, the railroad trestle over the river;

The steeple of the never-locked Methodist church, the loft of the old barn where the stage sets from the opera house was stored after it was condemned as a fire hazard and torn down;

The carvernous, chilly depths of the ice houses which had been stripped of the previous winter's harvest, the corner lot worn smooth by endless shufflings of innumerable feet belonging to baseball, football and basketball players in season.

There never was any time to go back over the old trails after school started, nor any inclination, either. The trails were cold and drab, never to be thought of again until I became a bigger boy than I was then, with less hair and more inhibitions, such as not taking a last look around before Labor Day for fear of being accused of sentimentality about things that are gone, past and forgotten—but never quite forgotten.

The new is but the old come true.
Each sunrise sees a new year born. — Helen Hunt Jackson.

Vested Interests Block Spending Cuts

By Raymond Moley

LOS ANGELES

In a preceding article I pointed out that, despite brave claims of economy, this administration has really failed materially to cut back expenses in the civil activities of the government and in government employment. And yet we are hearing loud sounds of protests in many quarters.

The source and nature of these complaints serve to show how difficult it is for the President and his department heads to cut in a manner which will give the taxpayer real relief.

The net conclusion is that something more than mere good will by the administration will ultimately be necessary to hack away the fat in our vast federal bureaucracy.

Most people will fight with bitter desperation when their jobs are threatened. A lot will fight with little attention to principle.

Federal office-holders are no exception, and they have advantages peculiar to themselves. After years of not too onerous toil, with steadily increasing pay and many additional benefits, they are deeply entrenched.

In a bureau or department, there is what might be politely called "esprit de corps," which literally means that no matter how fiercely they will quarrel among themselves, they will close ranks at the approach of danger from without.

If one decides to leave, he will be sure that the plans are made to have a pal promoted to his job. Generally this is done so effectively that the big boss will not know of the prospective vacancy until it is filled.

Republican politicians in Washington, anxious to reward the faithful who participated in the 1952 campaign, are already complaining bitterly about this practice.

Moreover, official holdovers of any standing have learned well during the years they have served how to use propaganda to their advantabe.

They have intimates among Washington correspondents whom they have helped with inside handouts over the years. Hence, you will see cropping up in the papers, notably in some signed comments, complaints about how "morale" is being destroyed by the "purge," by the "economy mania," and by the inevitable specter of McCarthyism.

After a while the new people who have come in since January are convinced that this or that activity is very useful. I have a communication from an official of a department who complains that a certain activity, which I had said made no sense to me, was a "vital unit."

Another was essential, he wrote, because it informed the American people about government and informed the government about the people.

My feeling about that sort of reply is that if everything is kept that can show some such justification, we may as well give up trying to balance the budget or to reduce taxes.

It is a curious thing how short a time it takes a new employe of the government to forget about the essential matter of taxes.

I might answer this official by saying there are a lot of "vital" things I would like to do with my money which is taken away by Uncle Sam's tax gatherers.

Out here in the West, I have heard repeated complaints, even by businessmen who ought to know better, to the effect that the curtailing of public works will stifle the growth of this state or that.

A man in Idaho said that a certain very expensive irrigation project was vitally necessary because we would have a national food shortage by 1975. I replied that the taxpayer was going to have a money shortage long before that.

Local communities are still being propagandized by holdover federal agents in order to start a backfire on congressmen.

Politicians are sowing the seeds for a crop of anti-economy votes in 1954.

These are some of the problems facing those officials who want to carry out the 1952 pledges of economy.

They are serious, and they will prevail unless some sort of bar is established to limit federal expenditures to federal income, with taxes lowered to a reasonable level.

The nature of such a remedy I shall describe in another article.

Two Worlds, Two Bombs

By MARK DANA

A few days ago in a speech, Premier Malenkov hinted that Russia has the hydrogen bomb. Oddly enough, the officially disseminated text of the speech was more vague than the radio recording. Many Americans wistfully doubted the assertion, but now our own Atomic Energy Commission has confirmed that Russia does have the H-bomb although remind that knowing how to make one, and being able to make effective ones in quantity and cart them across the ocean, are quite different.

We are reminded that we similarly were skeptical—and dismayed—on hearing that Russia had made some atomic bombs. To be realistic we should accept the premise that Russian scientists, for years concentrating on war materials, actually can make both types of bombs.

It does not follow at all that spies in the U. S. enabled Russia to develop these weapons. True, some traitors within our shores did turn over some secrets to the Reds. Yet the basic facts about nuclear fission have been made known to school children everywhere, and it is not surprising that Russia, spurring her scientists in war channels, should do some inventing too.

Hence with the two leading nations, heading rival national groups, now having both of these fearful weapons—and with no defense against either weapon possible once it is dropped—surely the sober citizens of both these countries should make new resolves.

One should be that war should be outlawed by its sheer terror, the vast annihilation now possible. Another should be that peoples and governments show more elasticity in settling disputes by conference. Obviously, force only begets other force. Just as provable, cooperation stimulates cooperation in return. Look where boasts, threats, hysteria and unremitting rivalry for power and prestige have brought the world!

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Importation of fine horses for breeding purposes was a thriving business shortly after the 1860's. In 1868 a company composed of T. P. Wallace, A. H. Kling, Watkins Bros., James Coffy, Jacob Howser, William Gilmor and Luther Smith brought to Marion County 14 Norman stallions, all produced in France. Two years later, T. P. Wallace, A. H. Kling, Orren Patten, James Coffy, Watkins Bros. and Jacob Howser purchased 13 Norman stallions in France.

Church Record

GATESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Dan Graves, 79-year-old pioneer school teacher and retired banker of Gatesville, figures he has spent a total of two years and two days of his life in church.

He has been a resident member of the First Baptist Church here for 57 years.

Graves also calculates he has spent 311 days shaving — mostly getting ready to go to church.

Special Investigation

CIMARRON, Kan. (AP)—A motorist with poor coordination rounded a residential corner here, smashed into a home and caved in the front wall of the building. Sheriff Charlie Davis launched the investigation with special zest. It was his home.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Pfc. Purkey Follows a Line

("India, which often abstains, took a new course of 'not participating' in a vital U.N. decision. V. K. Krishna Menon, its delegate, said he did not wish to add to the heat of battle but would give anxious concern to all current problems—"news item.)

Dear General: Well, I am sorry I will have to leave the Army, but the best I can give in the struggle of the free world against slavery is my anxious concern and this is to inform you that from here in I am not participating.

While I am giving anxious consideration, Russia and the Korean and Chinese Reds will be giving us the works as usual, but I wish you would not bring that up.

If a nation like India which voted the U.N. and me into a bloody war can say it is not participating when the chips are down so can a GI, I figure.

"We are marching toward peace," said the Indian delegate when he refused to participate not only in the vote of our side against the enemy, but even for the resolutions of tribute to the war dead.

If he can march without getting his feet frozen, suffering fallen arches and getting ambushed, why can't I?

India says that to be 100 per cent with us would "add to the heat of the battle." Well, general, excuse me if I take the same attitude. I am all for this heatless battle stuff. You can't make war too air-cooled for me.

India is a riddle inside of an enigma inside of a card game inside of an old-fashioned waltz inside of a revolving door, I guess, and so am I.

Please try to explain this to my top sarge. He is apt to misunderstand things, especially this nonparticipating stuff. . . .

Incidentally, general, if they strike off any citations and medals for non-participating do not bother to get me one as I would rather not be seen with it and might feel as small as India which voted me into this shindig and then decided the best it could do for me was to show continue "anxiety" and as yet not to add to the heat of the trouble between me and the opposing artillery.

India says the Chinese and North Koreans are approaching the peace talks in a mood of reasonableness.

Well, how he makes this jibe with the continued unfriendly acts and words of the Red Chinese and Vishinsky's fresh charges that the United Nations and Uncle Sam are the aggressor escapes me, but of course, I am not too bright.

Well, I hope the kids still getting drafted don't respond by just notifying the draft board they ain't participating—that would make it tough, eh, general? You and I and India better keep this non-participation stuff quiet.

(If this letter don't make sense take it up with the U.N. General Assembly. I am just following the very words of the Indian delegate and nobody tossed him into the guardhouse or demanded explanations, did they?) Yours nonparticipating but anxious. Oscar Purkey, PFC.

Traffic Survey Unit Plans for Money Drive

Final plans for the start of a fund-raising campaign Sept 8 were made at a meeting of the Traffic Survey and Grade Crossing Elimination Committee held last night

Receipt booklets and letters defining the purposes of the solicitation were issued to division chairmen and workers who attended the meeting

The committee is charged with the task of raising $12 000 to pay the major share of the cost of a complete traffic survey in and near Marion

The letters issued to workers last night pointed out that the traffic survey is planned to delve into all phases of the traffic problem and seek solutions which will be most beneficial to the greatest number of persons

It added that the complexity of this problem makes the traffic survey a job for competent engineers, not laymen.

The letter also noted that the traffic survey is needed to develop a master traffic plan for the city before any federal, state, or railroad financial aid is possible on projects to eliminate grade crossings and other traffic problems

Total cost of the survey will be approximately $20 000 with all funds collected by the committee to be held in trust until engineers are actually employed. The remaining $8,000 will come from the city and the county treasuries City Council has set aside $6,000 as its share and the County Commissioners have allocated $2,000 as their share of the project

Appointment of Herbert Petrich to head up the Industrial Corporations division in the forthcoming solicitation for funds was announced at the meeting las night

Quotas were set for each division and the first report meeting on progress of the collections is scheduled for Sept 15

Marion Firemen Called To Put Out Debris Fire

Smoldering debris at the rear of 1040 Uncapher Ave. caused neighbors to call out firemen at 1:24 this morning.

The debris was the remains of the garage of Martin Beckel of 885 Henry St. The garage had burned almost to the ground on Saturday morning.

Fire department officials said Beckel removed the refuse from the scene of the fire and left it at the Uncapher Ave. address. Some of the boards were still smoldering and sparks from them caught the rest of the material on fire

Firemen from the Center St. station were called to extinguish the flames and make sure the fire would not blaze up again. No damage was done to the rubbish.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—How does it feel to be a Communist for the FBI?

Roger Dunham says it was quite a burden.

Some of his neighbors, he said, had not talked to him for a long time. His fellow workers had threatened him with violence. His six children couldn't find many playmates. His 23 - year - old son Jerry lost a job at a Dayton plant. His wife had to stop teaching Sunday School.

All this Dunham told reporters of the Dayton Daily News yesterday in interviews after he had testified in a local court case in which his activities for the FBI were made public for the first time in 13 years.

That the 13 years hung heavily on Dunham's shoulders while he worked in a local General Motors plant was apparent to newsmen who talked to him.

But today he was a new man. His friends and neighbors were calling him on the telephone, offering him their good wishes and sympathy for what he had undergone in those years of Communist activity.

Wednesday Dunham testified in the trial of Melvin E. Hupman, accused of falsely swearing he was not a Communist when he signed a Taft-Hartley affidavit in 1949. That trial is still under way, but as Wednesday's session neared the end, U. S. Atty. Joseph Bullock turned to Dunham and asked:

"During this time (the period of Dunham's party membership) did you maintain contact with the FBI?"

Dunham replied: "Yes."

At that moment 13 years of masquerading was over for Dunham.

He had testified in court about the acivities of state and national Communist figures. In the same trial, another Communist for the FBI, Arthur Strunk, 57, identified Hupman as a former Communist. Dunham, who had been a member of United Electrical Workers' Union while employed at Frigidaire Plant No. 5 in Dayton, also gave testimony concerning a conversation between Hupman and a Communist official at a Communist meeting.

FBI officials would not comment when asked why this particular trial was selected to present Dunham as a witness and reveal his FBI association.

IT HAD TO HAPPEN

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W.Va (AP)—It had to happen, what with the weather the way it's been recently.

Edward Blosser, 16, said yesterday he fried an egg on the sidewalk outside his home here.

SWEET SAVINGS. Ronnie Olgers, 11, carries his piggy banks to the bank by the wagon-load at Richmond, Va. The savings, given the lad during a long illness, filled 17 fruit jars. Here Ronnie pushes some of the money through the teller's window to Teller George Martin. After nearly an hour's work at the coin counting machine, Martin wrapped the last of the coins and credited Ronnie's account with a deposit of $469.29.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—Trading in the stock market was a quiet affair today on the eve of the Labor Day holiday, and prices were narrowly mixed.

Prices seldom moved either way more than a small fraction, and many key issues held unchanged for long periods.

Railroads were lower by a small amount. The market otherwise was steady or narrowly mixed in significant areas.

Lower stocks included Baltimore & Ohio, Du Pont, General Electric, and Boeing. Higher were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, and Allied Chemical.

Tito Threatens Italy in New Note on Trieste

Call Off War Games On Border, He Says, Or I'll Send Troops

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia threatened officially today to send troops to the Italian-Yugoslav frontier unless Italy ends her maneuvers, termed a "military demonstration," in that area.

The warning was contained in a note—the fourth in three days—sent by President Marshal Tito's government to Italy's foreign ministry in Rome as a result of new tension in the seven-year-old feud between the two nations over the future of the free territory of Trieste.

"If the Yugoslav government establishes that the Italian government continues to adhere to the abnormal situation on the border," the note said, "it will be forced to undertake corresponding measures on its territory."

In plain terms, this means Yugoslavia plans to march in troops to back up her frontier guards in the Gorizia region, north of Trieste, unless Italy withdraws the forces on the opposite side of the frontier there.

The note, made public by the Yugoslav foreign office's information section, described as unsatisfactory Italy's rejection of three previous Yugoslav complaints concerning border incidents of the past week.

The Yugoslavs say Italy had two divisions (perhaps 20,000 to 30,000 men) in the area and Italian detachments twice have strayed onto Yugoslav soil.

Germany

between the two policies has been the major campaign issue.

For two years, however, the American High Commission office has been promoting increased German sovereignty and carefully avoiding intervention in German self-government.

Whether Dulles' statement helps Adenauer or hurts him in the election, Americans conceded privately it was very likely to stir German resentment.

U.N.

iet bloc countries, India and Indonesia voted against the postponement.

The situation has changed somewhat as a result of the Korean armistice, but the United States will contend that the China representation question should await the outcome of the forthcoming Korean peace conference, at which the Peiping government will play a leading role.

perience, some men ignore pain or weather and keep going until actually exhausted.

A sense of humor and cooperative spirit saved airmen forced down in Korea or in Africa in World War II, he said. Groups of men survived better when they had a goal, a plan of action to escape the enemy.

So in a heat wave, said Dr. Torrance, it probably would help a family to "think of something that's fun to do, and not just sit still and sweat."

Humans are very suggestive, Dr. Torrance added. You can feel worse upon discovering the temperature is 96 when you thought it was much less. And maybe we humans take a perverse kind of "I-can-take-it" pride in reading that the heat set a record today or yesterday.

Dean

themselves home guards," Dean said.

By Aug. 25 he had worked his way as far south as Chinhae, about 30 miles below Taejon. There he met a Korean civilian who promised to help him return to American lines.

But when they reached the point where they were supposed to meet American troops, a group of Koreans started shooting.

A Korean grabbed his arm and "before I was able to get my hands free about 20 Koreans were on me."

That night in a jail Dean's feet were swollen so he took off his boots.

"That gave them the idea," he added wryly. "They took the boots.

"The next day when we were marching north they gave me Korean rubber shoes but there were no soles on them. It was a terrible mistake taking my boots off."

The general's wife heard the news of his release while driving from Berkeley, Calif., to the home of their daughter in Monterey, about 130 miles to the south.

She stopped at an undisclosed retreat and telephoned her daughter, Mrs. Robert Williams, who quoted her as saying:

"The news hit me like a bombshell. I'm overwhelmed. What I need now is eight hours sleep. I don't want any pictures taken until Dad gets home. Then they can take them until they're black in the face. He's the hero, not I."

Mother Waits At Home

The general's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dean, was waiting at her home in Berkeley when news of his release arrived.

Talking with newsmen here, Dean recalled events leading up to his capture.

The Army listed him as missing on July 20 but Dean said he was still in action the next day when "We had a little bazooka tank busting."

He said he made preparations with one of his regiments for a breakout at Taejon but feared a roadblock at a little Korean settlement.

The group ran into the road block as expected and engaged in a hot fight. In leaving there, Dean said, "We were on the wrong road."

Dean in his jeep raced down a troops dug in on both sides. Dean road lined with North Korean and his column were separated in the intense running fight.

Later Dean met an armored vehicle with 15 American soldiers.

The little group ran into another heavy skirmish. Dean made contact with his aide during the fighting and "found he had been wounded."

The small group of 17 "moved out at dark to again try a breakthrough over the mountain."

They moved into the hills. Dean's aide reported a wounded American in their rear.

Carry Wounded GI

"I went back and found he could not walk. My aide, myself and two other men took turns in carrying him in."

Later, while the group was resting, Dean heard a trickle of water and started out to find it.

"The next impression I had was that of running down . . .," Dean said, "then I drew a blank. When I awakened my watch showed it was a little after midnight. I was way down at the bottom of a hill.

"I started to crawl up again. I either passed out or fell asleep. When I awakened again a Korean patrol was passing not 10 yards away. I don't know how they missed me."

The general said he then crawled down to a stream and hid out in the brush. From there on, he said, "It was an endeavor to get back out. Whenever I seemed to be heading to success Koreans would see me.

"The South Koreans that day had certainly been indoctrinated to search out Americans."

The general described the Koreans as youths of about 17 or 18 "who seemed to be happy and excited because they had been given guns by the North Koreans."

He said the Reds discovered he was a general at Chongju a few days after his capture. They took him to Chongju in a truck with about 20 Korean soldiers. He arrived there late at night "as our planes were bombing the town.

"They put me in a 20 man cell all to myself."

He was shuttled around to a number of Korean cities and villages during his captivity.

Last June 16, Dean was returned to the Pyongyang area. He reached Kaesong Aug. 5.

Situation Improves

"There I lived like a plutocrat," Dean said. "I had the same quarters the 7th Division had as an outpost when I commanded the 7th (during the occupation). It was a beautiful place.

"There was a waterfall and they had a Chinese cook for me," he said.

Dean said the Reds fed him tea, meat, bread and butter — "all I wanted." The Reds also insisted that he drink vodka before dinner each day.

Dean said it was not until his "Korean press conference" at Kaesong that he knew the news of his capture had been suppressed for more than a year.

Dean said he was not questioned by the Reds after Oct. 2, 1950.

It was not until Jan. 15, 1952, that Dean got anything to read and then "most of it was Communist literature."

Well Up On Communist

"I'm pretty well read on communism," Dean said wryly.

Dean said he was in the custody of Koreans the entire time. His guards were three to nine Koreans, each equivalent to an American master sergeant.

"The only English they could speak was what they learned from me," he said.

"I was addressed for three years as 'You.'"

Dean imitated the way the Koreans yelled "you" at him—a short sharp bark. "They didn't mean anything by it. They were very friendly. They were really a nice bunch of boys."

Letters Get Through

Dean said he had been "very fortunate about getting letters"—64 from his daughter, 35 from his mother, 26 from his wife and 9 from his son.

Dean said he refused to broadcast even a message that he was alive on the Communist radio because "I didn't want to open the door" for propaganda broadcasts.

"I am counting the hours until I return home," he said.

Ralph Osborne (left) had just informed him he had been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his heroic fight the night he was captured by the communists two years ago. It was not disclosed until Lt. Stone had been freed for fear of reprisals by Reds.

Tractor-Trailer Upsets On Auto, Four Injured

CINCINNATI (AP)—A tractor-trailer loaded with sports equipment overturned on a passenger automobile today, caught fire and injured four persons.

John R. Dordaller, 27, and his wife, Loraine, 23, who were in the automobile, were taken to a hospital. Mrs. Dordaller suffered a possible skull fracture and cuts and bruises, it was reported. Her husband was cut and bruised.

$100,000 THEFT REPORTED

CINCINNATI (AP)—Theft of $100,000 worth of securities from the M. H. Buckles Co. in the village of Arlington Heights, just north of Cincinnati, was reported today.

Hamilton County police said M. H. Buckles told them the securities were in a locked safe.

Entrance to the company, which operates a machine works, was gained through a window.

Ex-Convict, 30, Held in Slaying Of Toledo Pair

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—A 30-year-old ex-convict, protesting that he is innocent, was held today in the savage knife-killings and robbery of an elderly retired machinist and his wife.

Detective Capt. Ralph Murphy said a first degree murder charge would be filed tomorrow against Sam Nettles of suburban Swanton. He said Nettles's fingerprints were found on a whisky bottle in the victims' house and that he had flunked a lie detector test.

The bodies of William Pegler, 76, and his wife, Bertha, 68, were found Wednesday bearing a total of 54 knife wounds. Several pieces of Mrs. Pegler's jewelry were stolen.

Police picked up Nettles in a combination pool room-restaurant yesterday after a waitress phoned them that he gave her some jewelry for a meal and $3, Murphy said. The officer said the jewelry corresponded with the description of that stole, from the Pegler home, and that Nettles was wearing a Masonic ring like one taken from Pegler's hand.

Following Nettles' arrest Murphy discarded a theory that one man killed the Peglers and Chinese chef Yee Fook Jung, 38, slain in an alley last March 27 with 43 knife thrusts.

He said Nettles was released from the Mansfield Reformatory last June 25 after serving nearly three years for armed robbery and so would have been behind bars at the time of Jung's murder.

YOUTH KILLED ON ROAD

MCARTHUR, Ohio (AP)—A youth sleeping on a highway was killed today by a truck. State Highway Patrolmen said Herbert Everett Webb, 18, of nearby Radcliff was killed on Ohio 160 east of Hamden. There was no explanation of why the youth was asleep on the highway.

Troopers Nab 5 After Chase

Face Robbery Quiz; Three Are Ohioans

STROUD, Okla. (AP)—State troopers nabbed four men and a woman after a wild 25 mile chase on U. S. 66 near here last night and identified two of them as escapees from the Leeper, Mich., State Reform School.

The troopers said they chased the car 25 miles before a truck accidentally blocked the highway, forcing them to stop.

All were lodged in the Lincoln County jail at Chandler.

The prisoners were identified as Frank Griffin, 19, and his 21-year-old girl friend, Mary Ostrander, both reportedly escapees from the Michigan institution. Others were Roger Randerer, 19, Columbus, Ohio; Aaron Shaffer, 18, Bremen, Ohio, and Ralph Lewis Imber Jr., 22, of Dayton, Ohio.

Capt. Ted Baughman, chief of homicide in Oklahoma City, said the five will be questioned in connection with a recent armed robbery wave in Oklahoma City.

IT TOOK AN ACT OF CONGRESS. Gerda Goerauch, 24, pretty blonde from the Soviet zone of Germany, and her fiance, T/Sgt. John R. Hall, 35, enjoy a happy reunion at International Airport at New York on her arrival from Munich. Thus ends Hall's 18-month effort to get her a visa, blocked because Gerda, as a Soviet zone resident, was ineligible under U. S. immigration laws. The matter was finally solved by introduction in Congress of a bill to admit her. Couple left by auto for Hall's home at Forest City, Ark., where they plan to be married Saturday. They met in 1950 when Hall was stationed in Germany.

Real Estate Expert Gives Tips on Buying

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Buying or building a house requires some compromises, according to Dr. Fred E. Case, assistant professor of real estate at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Case suggested two general rules — that the purchase price should not exceed more than two and one-half times the buyer's annual gross income, that total payments on the mortgage should not exceed 20 per cent of the buyer's take-home pay.

He said location is usually more important than the property. A smaller house in a better location is better, he said, than a large house in a less desirable area.

Good workmanship with poor materials is a better bet than good materials and poor workmanship and probably will cost less in the long run.

On general appearance, Dr. Case recommended a plain house with simple lines as one which will hold its resale value. He noted that the house with at least three bedrooms and one and one-half baths has the best market appeal at present. He considered 1,000 square feet the minimum, even for two persons. If you want space for your money, he advised a house 15-20 years old.

For resale he said a low down payment was smart, but that a shorter term loan with higher monthly payments was better, to reduce the cost.

President Naguib of Egypt pours water from kettle as he enacts traditional ceremony of purifying his body prior to prayers at Moslem's holiest mosque during his holy pilgrimage to Mecca, Saudi Arabia. MAGAZINE SAYS THIS IS RUSSIA'S VERSION OF B36. American Aviation magazine says this picture, released in Washington, is that of a Russian Tu 75 bomber souped up with six turbo-prop engines. According to the magazine, this photograph was obtained from a reliable source inside Soviet-controlled territory. The Tu 75, the magazine said, is a copy of the U. S. B-36 intercontinental bomber and is being mass produced in Russia.

Drivers Urged To Take Care

Patrol Head Warns On Holiday Week End

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The superintendent of the State Highway Patrol today urged motorists to drive safely during the Labor Day weekend which begins tonight.

Col. George Mingle said:

"If motorists will offer at least the cooperation they showed during the July 4th weekend we can look forward to a decrease in the number of people who will meet death on Ohio highways and roads."

Mingle said 17 persons were killed on highways during the 1952 Labor Day weekend. "I am hopeful a combination of careful driving and maximum enforcement will cut this figure to a minimum," he said.

The patrol chief said every available man would be on duty during the weekend. He said radar will be used in critical areas and officers will be instructed to enforce rigidly all traffic laws.

The state's grand champion carload of 20 Aberdeen-Angus steers, owned by Wallace Nelson of Archbold, brought $46.50 a hundredweight from the Fort Hayes Hotel, well above the current market price of $27.50, but short of a record.

The reserve champion carlot, also Angus, owned by Flenner Mellinger of Springfield went to the Albers Stores of Cincinnati for $31 a hundredweight. The fair's first prize carlot of Herfords, over 1,100 pounds, also went to Albers for $27 50. These Days

By George Sokolsky

It is true that the Charter of the United Nations is, by its very existence, a limitation upon national sovereignty, but from the course of events, it is possible to justify the broad statement that only the United States has been called upon to do anything special about it.

SOKOLSKY

This arises from a single clause in our Constitution which makes a treaty, upon ratification by the Senate, the law of the land without specific legislation as to its implementation. Thus, a treaty may have the effect of an amendment to the federal and state constitutions.

-:-

TO CORRECT this weakness in our system, the Bricker Amendment to the Constitution has been recommended by the American Bar Association.

It provides:

"Section 1—A provision of a treaty which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect.

"Section 2—A treaty shall become effective as internal law in the United States only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of treaty.

"Section 3—Congress shall have power to regulate all executive and other agreements with any foreign power or international organization. All such agreements shall be subject to the limitations imposed on treaties by this article."

-:-

IT IS DIFFICULT to understand opposition, except that every President and every secretary of state prefers to have as complete a free hand as possible in the conduct of foreign policy and in the negotiation of treaties.

Prior to World War II, the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations regarded itself as a watchdog of our national interests.

Such chairmen as Henry Cabot Lodge, William Borah, and Arthur Vandenberg were unwilling to accept blindly a program which it was their constitutional responsibility to analyze and study.

During the years of World War II, the State Department got into the habit of briefing our senators and representatives, thus sealing their lips, if not their minds, by confidences.

Neither the White House nor the State Department nor the Pentagon has ever succeeded in sealing off the minds of thoughtful and patriotic Americans.

THE BRICKER Amendment was fully supported by John Foster Dulles before he became secretary of state, although since his appointment he has repudiated his logical endorsement. The cases to uphold the need for the Bricker Amendment are multiplying.

For instance, the Fuji case, discussed several times in this column, means, in the words of Frank E Holman, past president of the American Bar Association," . . . that our right to self-government, both state and national and our right to determine for ourselves what kind of laws we want to make and live under, can be nullified whenever the President and two-thirds of the members of the Senate present at the time approve a treaty or a particular subject."

THE WARSAW Convention, relating to international air transportation," . . . deprives American citizens of their full and proper right to trial by jury because one of the fundamental features of a jury trial in this country is that the jury shall determine the amount of damage, fair and reasonable in each case . . .

"This Warsaw Convention, being a treaty, has been held to be the Supreme Law of the Land and to overide state law and policies. . ."

The proposed Covenant on Human Rights could destroy freedom of speech and freedom of the press in this country, particularly under Articles 3 and 16 which place limitations upon such freedoms.

The Covenant on Human Rights has not yet been adopted but should it ever be, these particular articles would become the law of our land, nullifying the First Amendment to the Consittuion.

JOHN FOSTER DULLES has stated that the Eisenhower administration does not intend to become a party to the Covenant on Human Rights.

That is obiter dicta and not law It is always preferable not to leave great matters to good intentions.

The Bricker Amendment in no way impedes the President in his handling of our foreign affairs; it only safeguards the American people in their rights.

Dulles himself said:

"The treaty-making power is an extraordinary power liable to abuse. Treaties make international law and also they make domestic law.

"Under our Constitution treaties become the supreme law of the land. They are indeed more supreme than ordinary laws, for Congressional laws are invalid if they do not conform to the Constitution, whereas treaty laws can override the Constitution. . ."

Nothing ought to override the Constitution.

TWICE A PRISONER. Marine Sgt. Frederick J. Stumpges of Sheboygan, Wis., who survived the Bataan death march during World War II, is shown at Panmunjom following his release by the Communists in Korea. He has spent nearly 7 of his 14 years in the Marine Corps as a prisoner of war.

Grand Jury Frees Expectant Mother In Holdup Attempt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The expectant mother accused of attempting to rob a North Hollywood bank with a water pistol has been cleared by a federal grand jury.

The jury refused to indict Mrs Robin Smith, 20, who told officers she was separated from her husband, Dale, 21, and had no money to pay a mounting stack of bills.

Officers said the woman displayed the toy pistol at a window in the bank but turned and fled when the teller screamed. No money was taken.

Next day her baby was born, three months prematurely, in General Hospital. Both daughter and mother are doing fine—now.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Somehow the haze of summer heat has blotted out the heat and violence of the labor front.

The facts that there have been night-long riots in one part of the country; that a mine union organizer was shot to death in another, that another organizer was kidnapped, and that men have been slugged on both sides of many picket lines, have left no impact on a perspiring nation.

RIESEL

But you can bet your beach cabana that two tough undercover forces have been watching the destruction of men and property and the breaking of bones by angered partisans on both sides.

These observant forces — stalking each other in that weird shadow-world of spy and counter spy, saboteur and counter-agent — know full well that increasing bitterness on the industrial front is a sign of the times as jobs and money get tighter in the post-war cutback.

ONE OF THESE forces is the FBI. The other is the American Communist party's underground apparatus inside labor — the only pro-Soviet force now worth worrying about in the U.S.

There are days when the men around J. Edgar Hoover peel off as many as 1,000 agents to keep watch on the Communist labor underground.

That's 1,000 out of the 6,000 available for all chores, including the stalking of bank thieves and the Ku Klux Klan under the civil rights statutes which President Eisenhower and his Attorney General Herbert Brownell have activated so that no man anywhere gets pushed around by hooded gangs.

Daily these FBI agents, whether they are the 1,000 on special cases or the 15 or so who closed in on the two Communist fugitives in the High Sierras, turn in reports on which Brownell relied the other day when he reported, "Communists in the U.S. are a greater menace now," and are concentrated more in "unions than anywhere else."

WHY A GREATER menace now?

Because the Communists, too, are watching the tightening of lines as labor and industry prepare to meet the return to a post-war "normalcy" unbolstered by billions in defense orders.

Because the FBI has informed Brownell in general terms what the bureau's agents learn from specific Comintern directives to the American party, such as the following:

"We (the Communist apparatus) are now entering into a period of sharper class battles.

"This will confront the independent progressive-led (Communist) unions with both the opportunity and necessity to pursue a more vigorous, militant and affirmative struggle for labor unity."

-:-

THIS IS PART of a directive, issued in August, which means that the party's underground agents are to move into the AFL and CIO, from which they had been expelled years ago.

It means that they are to attempt to stir trouble in coming strikes.

It means they are to attempt to "audaciously and skillfully" lead in "the struggle" against American industry. And if there is no struggle, then one will be created.

There is little doubt that the FBI keeps the Department of Justice fully informed of every underground move in this direction.

Evidence that Brownell, long before he issued last week's statement, began moving against this network can be seen in the fact that he has his aides going over the records of exactly 365 Communist labor leaders.

SOME OF THESE are household hate words. Others are unknown to the public. In combination they control just about enough of our defense machine to cripple much of it in an emergency If that moment never comes, then all this has been wasted motion

If ever again there's a Red dawn of another December 7, many of our young soldiers and scientists and our older factory workers will be alive because of the FBI's surveillance of these 365 sovieteers in labor.

Just look at what they control, according to congressional testimony:

THEY CAN SLASH the production of high octane aviation gas. They can stall the digging and smelting of copper.

They can injure uranium-digging; nickel (for hydrogen bomb tubing) mining; uranium refining; (radar) jet and atomic motor production; shipping of men and material to the Pacific theater; intercontinental communication; messages to Army and Navy embarkation bases; production of special bomb sights and unpublicized detectors and guided missiles

This is only part of the list. The fault lies with the Justice Departments of the past.

The AFL and the CIO ousted the Commies but there has been no federal effort, until this week, to crack down on this underground.

Let's hope it's not later than we think!

Have you encountered increased difficulty recently in cashing rubber checks?

If so, the blame can probably be divided equally between your own clumsy, smiling technique and recent warnings issued to retail stores by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

INEZ ROBB

This is a nervous, snarling age distinguished by the insult direct and the drop dead chaff. About the only affable, agreeable persons left in it are those about to commit a rubber check, says the association. Individuals filled with sweetness, light and a yen for cash are obviously up to no good, it adds, blowing the whistle on Pollyanna.

-:-

AGAIN, THIS is an era contentious and argumentative to the point of Vishinsky.

Say "two and two make four" on any street corner and some curmudgeon who has heard of Einstein will step up and try to make something of it.

But the bad check artist bumbles every time by agreeing with anything — everything — said by the party on whom the swindle is about to be perpetrated, the NRDGA points out.

Obviously, you don't catch a man with real money in the bank yessing the hired hands and imitating Lord Chesterfield.

You don't catch this S Legree nodding his head in approval at the first fool who says grass is green. Grass Green? In this heat? After this drought? Are you nuts? Any idiot with eyes can see that it's brown! Gimme the cash!

WAS SCROOGE polite? Did his checks bounce? Let this be a lesson to the mob that wants easy money: Act normal, snarl, crack the whip. Tell the clerk you want the money in 10s and 20s, to step lively or he'll be looking for a new job and wait while he forces the money on you.

Despite the continued high level of employment in the United States and the swollen national income, increasing numbers of confidence men and women are trying to perform the modern alchemist's trick of transmuting rubber into cash, the MRDGA reports.

With so much money lying around just for the working, many persons still prefer to retain their amateur status and make it the easy way.

Retail stores are a favorite target for the rubber merchants, the association says.

BUT, IT ADDS, there are other tests than the rudeness test to help the retail store in assessing the elastic content of a proferred check.

Nothing spoils a bad-check pitch more surely than a hard luck story, says the flinty hearted association.

The manager of the local emporium knows every angle because his wife listens to all the washboard weepers and keeps him posted. So he doesn't want to hear the real thing during office hours.

The lesson here is not to tell the floor walker you need to cash a check because the little woman is dying, the kids are starving and the car is out of gas, or he will smell a rat and it may be you.

JUST TELL HIM you need the money for a crap shoot, a weekend in Atlantic City or any other sound, likely and logical explanation that comes to mind. Then step back to collect.

Also, if you have larceny in mind, don't mention "alleged friendship with company executives" when writing the check. Company executives don't have friends.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association adds an ominous note to its warning. Too many checks received in payment of charge accounts are bouncing, too.

"An increase in the amount of such checks merits attention and may be an indication of increased collecting difficulties in the offing," the association declares.

Does the association mean we can't afford all this prosperity?

Will Take Over 2 Years

Internal Revenue Bureau Reorganization Big Task

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—T. Coleman Andrews, the internal revenue commissioner, figured when President Eisenhower appointed him last winter it would take him two years to reorganize the revenue service.

He guesses now it will take a little longer. When he's finished, Andrews says, he will tell his boss, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. Then if the Eisenhower administration wants him to stay, he'll decide about staying.

But he says that if anyone inside the administration attempts to force him into favoring anyone, an individual or a corporation, no one will see him for the dust as he goes out the door.

He expects no such pressure, he says, and adds that he explained fully his plans to Humphrey and received the secretary's full approval. Andrews says he is working in two directions:

He's decentralizing — putting more authority in the field offices to make decisions on tax settlements, less in Washington; and he's putting more manpower into checking tax returns, less in other kinds of jobs.

So far, Andrews says, he has received wide approval for the steps he has taken from the public and members of Congress. But he concedes the reaction to his reorganization has not been unanimous.

The main complaint against him, he says, has come from a few "Washington tax practitioners," which, in effect, means tax lawyers.

But some members of Congress, those on committees dealing with tax and finance matters, are waiting for Andrews to give them a fuller explanation of what he is doing.

Some of them feel Andrews and Humphrey rushed the reorganization without giving them time for consultation. Congress could, of course, pass legislation at its session next year undoing Andrews' reorganization, or part of it.

Andrews himself minimizes criticism from the Capitol, expressing the view that when he sits down with some of the lawmakers this month any differences between them will be ironed out easily.

The Washington tax "practitioners," he says, have an understandable interest in seeing the revenue service more centralized in Washington. This is the point he makes.

Previously when an individual or corporation had a tax dispute with the government, involving a lot of money, the first step toward a settlement was taken in the field office nearest the taxpayer.

But the decision there—that the taxpayer should get a refund or pay more than he thought he should have to—was not final. The case then came to Washington for review by a special group in the main office here, called the post-audit division.

So far as the bureau was concerned this group's decision, reversing or upolding the field office, was final.

Andrews says it was when a case came here from the field for final review that the Washington tax specialist, hired by the taxpayer to look after his interests, usually got in on the case.

Andrews abolished this post-audit division. In most instances now the field offices will make the final decision.

Washington tax lawyers say complaints about Andrews' reorganization come not only from them but from tax lawyers, and some accountants, around the country and that their concern is centered on what they say they fear will be a lack of uniformity in administering the tax law.

One of these lawyers emphasized there was uniformity when there was a central supervision point like the post-audit group to see that the various field offices gave the same kind of decisions.

Now this lawyer says revenue employes in nine different regions will be making the final decisions. Andrews says there never was absolute uniformity but that to suggest there will be none under his plan is to say the national headquarters of the revenue service is incapable of keeping control over the service.

Besides, Andrews says, the rulings which set the pattern for decision will be made in Washington.

The same tax lawyer mentioned above says he thinks too much decentralization may lead to crookedness in the field offices which now will be under less direct control from Washington. Andrews' comment on that is this:

"The field is going to be only as honest as the headquarters and we here in Washington certainly don't intend to sell out the taxpayers and the administration."

Students Need 'Three A's,' Speaker Tells Teachers

Achievement, Acceptance And Affection Listed By Dr. C. B. Allen

By DOLORES BASINGER

Marion's city school summer workshop closed Wednesday night at State Street Junior High School with a 6 o'clock dinner and a summary of the two-day conference attended by some 175 teachers and administrators

Guest speaker was Dr C B Allen of Western Reserve University and director of guidance and research in the Lakewood public schools, who addressed the group on "Something New in the Classroom"

Dr Allen s talk centered around three "ingredients" that a teacher should give his students to produce mental health He referred to the ingredients as "the three A's", (1) Achievement—"Every child has the right to achieve in terms of his ability," he stated A student should be given the feeling of achievement and should not be denied of success, (2) Affection—" The feeling that some one person misses him when he's not there The home doesn't have to give all of the affection The teacher can be sympathetic and understanding" (3) Acceptance—" A feeling of belonging to a group'

DR. ALLEN stated that the "philosophy of the nudge could very well be implemented in the school room "A nudge is just a little bit of a shove," he explained He went on to say that many students fail to use their full mental capacities and that the individual student should be put to the full test of his capabilities, not just allowed to slide through on the average learning level "All of us, no matter what we teach," he said, 'could give a little nudge and we could be better remembered as teachers"

A student s mental health, according to Dr Allen, "depends upon his ability to get along with other people"

THE SPEAKER was introduced by City School Superintendent Lester L Dickey following the invocation by Melvin Keeran, group singing led by L G Jones and introduction by Norman Fogt of the consultants who presided at various work groups during the two-day meeting

Ten Sabrejets Will Race for Bendix Trophy Tomorrow

EDWARDS, Calif. (AP)—Ten Sabrejets will streak from Edwards Air Force Base at five-minute intervals tomorrow in the 1,900-mile Bendix Trophy Race to Dayton, Ohio.

Takeoffs will start shortly after dawn. The race is a feature of the National Aircraft Show at Dayton this weekend.

Pilots representing five Air Force commands will compete in the endeavor to break the 1951 Bendix record of Col. Keith N. Compton, who averaged 553.86 m p.h. from Edwards to Detroit.

Some pilots will make one refueling stop, some two, enroute. Ground crews will be ready to refill fuel tanks, up to 410 gallons, and to make minor repairs in three minutes or less.

The North American F86F planes, powered by General Electric J47-27 jet engines, are expected to reach Dayton in slightly more than three hours.

TREASURER GETS INCREASE

Bible Words to Live by

To select a single verse from the Bible as one's 'Favorite Passage' is a difficult undertaking and can, at best, be but the putting of the finger of the mind upon a verse that, in the context of current experience, stands out with special meaning. So it is as I suggest, at this moment, that 2 Corinthians 4:16 is my 'favorite'.

"So we do not lose heart. Though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed every day." (R.S.V.)

Life is a battle, as few persons need to be reminded. Every day I see individual human beings losing it ... because they wage it alone, without recourse to the resources that every man has a right to draw upon; and every day I see people winning it, sometimes by a slight margin ... because they let the transcendent power of God work through the earthen vessels of their lives. That is the margin of victory ... the power that raised Jesus from death to life, and surely can do as much for us. It has eternal proportions. "This slight affliction of the moment is preparing for us an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison." But it also is expedient to the necessities of the moment. "We are afflicted, but not crushed; perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed."

By our very nature we are destined to death; but by the living purpose of God in Jesus Christ we are destined, much more certainly, to life. "So do not lose heart."

One can but hope that such words, falling on the eye of some hard-pressed soul will convey the marvelous promise of the Christian gospel.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Late-at-Night Television

The problem of late - at - night television is still with us. Let's not hear anything from the back rows that we also have an acute problem in the mornings, the afternoons and the early evenings. Let's concentrate on late-at - night. One thing at a time here.

J. CROSBY

In the beginning there was Jerry Lester whose show had just the right mixture of brashness, informality and professional verve. It perished on the shoals of temperament. Then there was — and still is — the late show, the late late show, the late late late show — all of them movies, generally the same ones (Anne Baxter playing the part of her father's daughter, a difficult role. He's the crusading judge and, when he tries to close the gambling houses, he discovers she's up to her hips in debt at one of them. Blackmail, et cetera, and you know the rest.)

-:-

NOW, WE — at least, those of us in New York — have Steve Allen, and it looks at last as if we're getting somewhere. Allen's 40-minute show on WNBT (11 20 p.m. to midnight five times a week) is the brightest thing to come along in a long time. Allen is a wit with taste, a mind of his own and an effortless delivery and pace, just the thing for that hour. How NBC got him away from CBS I can't imagine. Very careless of CBS. Wit and originality are in short supply at the moment and Allen has both.

The Allen show opens with the maestro at the piano, which he plays passably well, though with a certain self - deprecatory air which isn't strictly warranted. From there it may move in any direction. Allen will pick up some screwy toy — a little automobile that runs about or some such thing — and play with it. "We don't have writers in this show; we have mechanics," he'll say. "You're probably not enjoying this but I am."

PARENTHETICALLY, I might add this sort of thing is getting to be awfully popular. Everywhere you turn you find Arthur Godfrey playing with, say, a parachute made of tissue or Garry Moore playing with some sort of gadget. The listeners in the old days of radio used to send in letters of little poems. Now they send toys and the high - priced talent plays with the toys in front of 40 or 50 million people who should be playing with their own toys. Where will it end?

From there Allen may dissect a song as Frank Fay once did, reciting the lyrics deadpan, a device which will murder most any lyric. The other night he recited a lyric which sounded like "would you botcha botcha me like I botcha botcha you."

"They're not writing songs like that any more," he remarked at the finish.

OR HE MAY interview — as he did that night — a fight manager named Vic Marsella who complains about fight movies. "This fighter, he's getting his brains belted out. The girl, she's 32 miles away, and she hears it on the radio he's been knocked down. So she comes to him. The count's up to four when she gets there. My fighters, the count's always eight-nine-ten just like that."

When Allen is tired of carrying the show you'll hear some pretty good jazz, of which there is precious little on television. Then Allen will tell some of his bedtime stories in depop, an experience that has to be heard to be believed. When Jack of Jack and the beanstalk first lays eyes on the goose that lays the golden eggs, he says: "The gone gosling is Fort Knox for sure." And when the giant comes tumbling down. "And the giant was the gonest."

OR HE MAY read little items from small local newspapers. "A potted dinner was enjoyed at the home of Wilfred Fertle last Thursday," Allen will read, adding quitely: "That'll probably be denied in later editions."

At the finish he wanders through the audience, interviewing people and generally insulting them amiably. "Who's that?" he'll ask. "My half brother." "I thought there was something peculiar about him. Who designed your blouse, Lucy?" "I really don't know." "I think Captain Video did."

I don't know how long he can take the pace but he's certainly giving out with a lot of wit and humor 40 minutes a night. All on one station. It deserves a wider audience.

Braves Call for Help to Beat Bums in Pennant Race

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT—HE'S OUT. New York Giants' Third Baseman Bobby Hofman puts tag on Cincinnati Redlegs' Outfielder George Lerchen several feet from third base in eighth inning of game at New York. Lerchen, trying to advance from first to third on Shortstop Roy McMillan's single to short center, was caught on throw to Hofman by Giants' Bobby Thompson. Giant hurler Ruben Gomez (28) backs up play while Umpire Frank Secory watches. New York won, 4-3, as only 1,672 spectators looked on in sweltering 99-degree heat.

Hustling Milwaukeeans Need 21 Straight Wins

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves, still cherishing pennant ambitions, hustled home today and sent out a "help wanted to beat the Dodgers" plea to the rest of the National League.

The Braves are going to need lots of help to get anything like really close to front-running Brooklyn. With 21 games to play they trail by nine Even 21 consecutive victories wouldn't guarantee the flag unless the dodgers were beaten at least 10 more times

Success sounds impossible But then a year ago anybody predicting that Milwaukee, Wis , would be a contender for the 1953 pennant in either major league would have been hurried off to the nearest doctor.

Here's the situation the rest of the way:

Milwaukee has 15 home games left, starting tonight against St. Louis. The Cards play four and then the Braves visit Chicago for a Labor Day doubleheader. They come back home for a two game series with Philadelphia, Brooklyn, New York and Pittsburgh and a three game set with Cincinnati Then they wind up on the road with pairs at St. Louis and Cincinnati.

A surprisingly consistent club all season the Braves have played slightly better ball on the road than at home They've won 44 and lost 27 out of town and have a 38-24 record in Milwaukee.

Brooklyn, a sensational home club this year, has only six more games at Ebbets Field and 15 on the road The Dodgers have won 55 and lost only 16 games in Brooklyn Away from home they've won 36 and lost 26.

The Dodgers open a three game visit with the Giants at the Polo Grounds tonight. They're back home Labor Day for two with Philadelphia, then head west for two each at Cincinnati, Milwaukee and Chicago and three at St Louis. When they get home they've got three with the Phillies and one with Pittsburgh before shoving off for Philadelphia to end the season with three against the Phils

The Braves gained one distinction over the Dodgers yesterday. They beat them 6-1 and ended their visits to Brooklyn with a 6-5 record, the only team in the league to gain the upper hand over the Dodgers at Ebbets Field.

Eddie Mathews broke a 1-1 tie with his 44th home run in the eighth It came with two aboard. Later in the same inning Jim Pendleton belted an inside-the-park blast that scored two more. Lew Burdette won his 14th game against three losses, best record in the league.

In other games Philadelphia shaded the Cardinals 2-1 and Cincinnati thumped New York 9-2. The New York Yankees whipped the St. Louis Browns 8-5, Cleveland climbed into a second place tie with Chicago by beating Philadelphia 9-4 as the White Sox lost to Washington 5-1 and Detroit edged Boston 5-4

The yankees lead is now 10½ games over Cleveland and Chicago with 22 to play.

The Phils' winning run against the Cardinals came in the eighth when Granny Hamner tripled and then scored as he knocked over catcher Del Rice during an attempted run down. Curt Simmons bested Harvey Haddix

Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati broke his batting slump with four hits—his 38th homer, a double and two singles—in the Redlegs victory in New York Larry Jansen, who owned a 24-3 lifetime record over Cincinnati, was the loser

Home runs by Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald and Gene Woodling which produced six runs, helped Eddie Lopat score his 14th victory for the Yanks. The Browns led 4-0 at one point.

The White Sox fell before the four hit pitching of Bob Porterfield and Johnny Schmitz. Porterfield pitched six scoreless innings but had to give up with a back injury.

Cleveland's victory over Philadelphia was its 16th in 19 meetings this season. Rookie Dave Hoskins drove in two of the runs in winning his eighth game and his fourth in a row.

Detroit survived a Boston home run siege by Karl Olsen, Hoot Evers and George Kell in the late innings Bob Nieman drove in three of the Tigers' five runs.

Perez Is Favored 12-5 To Win Tonight's Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Lulu Perez, Brooklyn's latest fistic pride, is a 12-5 favorite to whip Davey Gallardo in Madison Square Garden tonight and earn a shot at Willie Pep.

The 9 p. m EST bout will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) coast to coast.

The winner of the 10 rounder has been promised a crack at the former featherweight champion in the Garden Nov. 13.

The largest attendance for any World Series game was 86,288 when the Boston Braves faced the Indians at Cleveland on Oct 10, 1948

Some 8 Miles of Pipe Used

Construction of Barons' Ice Arena Is Under Way

More than eight miles of freezing coils will be installed under the floor of the Coliseum during construction, now underway, of the Marion Barons Hockey Club ice arena.

Excavation of the Coliseum floor, which began Saturday, is completed and the two trenches for piping are well toward completion.

A total of 218 pieces of pipe will make up the freezing coils for the arena. Each section of pipe is 195 feet in length According to Lee Watson, custodian at the Coliseum and overseer of the ice arena project, workmen will begin laying the pipe in a week or ten days. He said this is the lengthiest part of the project since the separate pieces of pipe must be welded together.

Watson said the project will likely be completed by Oct. 5. The Barons' first game, an exhibition, is with the Cleveland Barons, parent club of the local team and champions of the American Hockey League, at the Coliseum Oct. 11. After this game, the Barons' International Hockey League season starts Oct. 14.

Two trenches, one 75 feet long and the other 15 feet long will serve as the feeder and return lines for the brine solution used in the freezing coils. The longer pipe, the feeder, runs the entire length of the arena.

Approximately six inches of crushed stone will be used as a base and for drainage of the entire arena. The pipes will be placed above the rock and some four inches of sand will go over the pipe.

The ice will remain solid until April when the Barons' hockey season will end. It will not interfer with basketball games at the Coliseum as the basketball floor can be set up over the ice The ice will also be used for public skating every week, it has been announced.

A 75-horse power motor and a 50-horse power motor will operate the compressors used to pump a water freezing coolant through the pipes, Watson added

Hamilton and Sons of Marion were in charge of the excavation. Other contractors on the project are Peacock Plumbing of Marion, plumbing, and Mollenburg-Betz of Buffalo, N. Y, and Frick Refrigeration, also of Buffalo, N. Y, engineers for the refrigeration.

Seixas Playing Expert Tennis At Tournament

By WILL GRIMSLEY

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP)—Vic Seixas is playing tennis like the world's greatest amateur, and it's easy to recognize the incentive.

It's a $50,000 professional pot of gold

The tall, handsome Philadelphian is almost sure to sign for Jack Kramer's touring troupe if he can add the U. S. National to his Wimbledon championship and make a creditable showing in the Davis Cup matches in September.

Kramer as a spectator yesterday at the West Side Tennis Club when Seixas, his game razor sharp, cut down the veteran Bill Talbert of New York in a fourth round match, 6-2, 6-0, 6-0, winning the last 14 games in a row.

The smashing triumph automatically turned what appeared to be a wide open U S National tournament into a one-man show, with Seixas now heavily favored.

"I've never seen Vic play better—he was wonderful," commented Kramer.

Seixas himself said his game appeared on a finer edge than at Wimbledon, where he outclassed the world's outstanding players, including this present international field.

"If I can continue playing like this, I think I can win it," he said afterwards "The only time I've felt I was playing as well was in Australia a year ago"

Seixas won the Victorian championship in Australia, beating Don Candy, Ken Rosewall, Ken McGregor and Frank Sedgman in order, losing only one set to the batch of them.

Seixas is idle today while tournament directors push the top half of the draw out to the semi-finals.

In these matches, Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, seeded second, plays Budge Patty, the world tennis tourist from Los Angeles, seeded seventh, and Australia's Ken Rosewall, the No. 1 foreign seed, meets Sweden's Sven Davidson, upset winner over ex-champion Art Larsen.

Lew Trailing In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Milon Marusic took a fancy 5 under par 67 into the second round of the National Celebrities Open Golf Tournament today, but his fellow pros seemed to be worried more about beating the heat and Lew Worsham.

Worsham, of Oakmont, Pa., was in second place one stroke behind Marusic, a little known professional from Herkimer, N. Y.

Mike Rome of Rye, N. Y., one of three players tied for third at 69, summed up the way he and some of the other less well-known players felt by saying:

"I've been up there before after one or two rounds, but it's something else to be in there at the finish"

Tied for third with Roma were Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N Y., a veteran of the pro circuit, and a youngster who teaches golf at a public course in Baltimore, Leo Biagetti

Reserve HHS Grid Tickets To Be Open To Public Tuesday

Reserve seat tickets for Harding football season home games will be opened to the public Tuesday, Cecil Gabler, Harding High School principal, announced today.

School officials previously had permitted adults who had season home game tickets the year before to retain the same seats. Those wishing the same seats again must call J. H Smith, high school treasurer, at 2-0235, by Tuesday

Approximately 500 season home game tickets have been sold to date but between 600 and 700 choice seats still remain, Gabler said

Adult tickets are $3 75 for four home games, with Bowling Green Sept. 25, Fostoria Oct. 9, Columbus Central Oct. 16 and Fremont Ross Nov. 6. Student tickets are $1 75.

A game with Columbus West at Columbus Sept. 18 opens the Harding schedule although a preview game with Newark High School is carded at the stadium Sept. 12 Admission to the preview game is not included in the season ticket prices

Final Heats Set Tonight for Fair Harness Race Card

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The final heats of two Ohio State Fair harness racing events will be run off today as the week long fair meet comes to a close.

Second heats of the 19 pace and 22 trot of yesterday's program were rained out. Miss Winsocki, with William (Doc) McMillen in the sulky won the first heat of the 19 pace and Tilly's Filly, Bob Seabrook back, won the opening dash of the 22 trot.

Maximilian, son of Guy Abbey and Princess Marina won yesterday's 35th running of the Governor's Stake. The three-year-old trotter defeated nine other Ohio-owned horses in straight heats. The horse, driven by Jerry Neikirk, is owned by Robert E Agner of Ottawa. Sen John W. Bricker presented the silver punch bowl trophy to Agner and his wife

T. B McCoys Sunset Bay won the two-year-old pace, finishing first in the opening heat and a half-length behind What's Up, owned by Harry and Clark Wise of Canton, in the second

Tribe Bumps A's 9-4

White Sox, Indians Move Into Tie for AL Second Place

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, who nudged the Cleveland Indians out of second place July 8 and haven't let them back in, open a three-game series here tonight in a tie with the Tribe for the runnerup spot

After Cleveland beat Philadelphia's Athletics 9-4 yesterday for their 15th victory in 17 games Chicago lost to Washington 5-1

That left the two clubs tied, 10½ games back of the first-place New York with 21 games to go

This rivalry, plus a break in the heat wave may bring out enough fans tonight to put the Indians' home attendance over the million mark for the eighth season in a row Another incentive will be a pre-game ceremony honoring Jack Graney, former Tribe outfielder who is retiring at 67 after 20 years of broadcasting Indians' games

Mike Garcia (16-8) and Chicago's southpaw Billy Pierce (17-9) will be mound opponents tonight

Rookie Dave Hoskins gave the Athletics 10 singles and four walks yesterday in earning his eighth victory against three losses Veteran Carl Scheib making his first start since he hurt his shoulder five weeks ago, was driven off the mound in the Tribe's four-rally of the fourth inning

Al Rosen singled and scored the first run of that rally on Wally Westlake's single, and Jim Hegan's double with the bases full brought in the other three runs Bill Glynn singled home two Cleveland runs in the sixth and three more came in the next inning—one on Bob Avila's single and two on a base hit by Hoskins

Cody, Cassius Win Armory Twin-Bill

Clint Cody won the first half of a double main go wrestling card at the Marion Armory last night by taking two straight falls from Gino Angelo

Cody took the first fall with a rolling body scissors and was given the second fall by the Marion Wrestling Commission on a foul by Angelo

Joe Cassius took the second half of the main go when Billy Fox missed a flying tackle and went out of the ring Injuring a knee Fox was unable to get back in the ring and was counted out

The preliminary saw Jim Lewis pin Paul Orth who was substituted for flu-downed Mr Satan

SOFTBALL TOURNEY STARTS

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE Ohio (AP)—The East Central Regional Men's Softball Tournament starts here tonight with teams from four states participating State and municipal champions are entered in the double elimination contest which runs through Monday night

Redlegs Blast Giants 9-2, but Still Are Losers

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's nice to visit New York, but it usually costs money At least, it cost the Cincinnati Redlegs money to play single games there Wednesday and yesterday

Only 1,672 fans showed up Wednesday and yesterday there were even fewer on hand—1 078—to see Cincinnati slug out a 9-2 victory over New York and gain a split in the series

The Redleg end of the gate for the two games came to $605 A club official figured they spent some $800 for food and rooms during the two days

Cincinnati returns to Crosley Field today for a twilight night doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs The club then will move on to Chicago for three more games over the weekend

Paul Minner (9-14) and Jim Willis (0-0) are to start for the Bruins this evening against two Cincinnati lefties, Jackie Collum (7-9) and Ken Raffensberger (7-12)

The best feature for Cincinnati about yesterday's game was the renewed slugging of Ted Kluszewski, who has been ailing since he was struck by a pitched ball two weeks ago in St Louis Ted banged out two singles, a double and his 38th homer in five times at bat

Larry Jansen, who had a 24-3 lifetime record over Cincinnati going into the game, finally bumped into the law of averages and suffered his 13th defeat of the year against 10 triumphs

Munn Reports Spartans Are Win-Conscious

EAST LANSING, Mich (AP)—There isn't a player on the Michigan State football team who knows what it feels like to be beaten in a college game

The last time the top-rated Spartans were defeated was in mid-season of 1950 when Maryland staged a 33-14 upset Michigan State has won 24 games since

And the last squad-men to play in that Maryland game have graduated

"But the boys aren't cocky," insists Head Coach Clarence H (Biggie) Munn "They realize we have a lot of hard work and some tough football games ahead of us"

Michigan State enters official Western Conference football play this season. The opener against Iowa at Iowa City Sept 26 will be followed by another road game, with Minnesota at Minneapolis

Michigan State then meets Texas Christian here Oct 10, Indiana here Oct 17, Purdue at Lafayette Ind, Oct 24, Oregon State here Oct 31, Ohio State at Columbus Nov 7 Michigan here Nov. 14 and Marquette here Nov 21

All the best judges of football material agree that if the platoon system had remained legal, Munn would have a dream-team this season

He has 21 lettermen returning with the 67-man varsity squad The sophomore and junior non-letter men mostly are youngsters

Mid-Ohio Tourney Action at Lincoln Park To Be Sunday

Action in the Mid-Ohio Baseball Tournament continues this week at Lincoln Park with sessions scheduled Sunday and Labor Day

Two consolation tilts comprise the Sunday program Nevada and LaRue will tangle in the 1 p m opener with Green Camp Elevator and Alger are booked in the afterpiece

Dick Bayles or Don Johnson will get the starting assignment for Green Camp and Cash Allen will probably take the hill for Alger.

Grid Coaches Call 25,000 to Practice Games

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high school football coaches, the most independent gang of guys the grid game has ever seen, are putting some 25,000 kids through preliminary practices these days

Approximately 575 schools will field teams this fall in the Buckeye scholastic title fight won the last five years by Massillon's mighty Tigers—and some of them appear determined to throw the Stark County powerhouse of Coach Chuck Mather off the throne

The Ohio high school mentors refused to go along with the college rule which banned the two-platoon system They not only shunned the one-platoon system but voted almost unanimously to take practically all restrictions off substitutions in direct opposition to the national trend

The seriousness of the Ohioans as the opening games of Sept 18 approach is shown by the number of teams attending summer football camps far from their homes

All this week, on a far - flung front the youngsters from many of the powerhouse schools are practicing away from the usual home-town distractions The stay-at-homes are getting a bit of preseason polishing by playing nearby opponents in practice games.

MT. GILEAD STAFF FILLED

MT GILEAD—Teaching staff at the Mt Gilead School which opens for a full day next Tuesday was completed this week with the hiring of two more teachers it was announced by Supt G R Blose Two high school teachers hired are Kempton Oaks a minister from Bellville to teach social studies, and Glenn Wrenn of Marion was hired as industrial arts

The winners of Sunday's games will play in the opener at 1 p m on Labor Day The second game, for the top bracket championship, pits Forest against Belle Center. Ohlen Hemmerly will probably pitch for Forest and his opponent will likely be R Hull

The tournament closes on Sept 13.

Little World Series Next

Power Shovel Captures Industrial Loop Crown

Marion Power Shovel captured the championship of the Industrial Softball League number one at Garfield Park Thursday evening by a 3-0 score to annex a spot in the Little World Series

After a mediocre showing during the first round which was won by Marion Industries, the Shovel came back strong in the second half of the season to take the second round with an undefeated record Last night's battle was a play-off tilt between Marion Industries and the new Industrial champions The Shovel broke the ice in the second frame by scoring one run and added single tallies in the fourth and fifth innings while Dwight Wilcox was spreading four opposing hits over seven innings without allowing a run

Bob Higgins notched the first Shovel run in the second on an error after he had reached first by the same means Wilcox drove E Morse over the dish in the fourth inning with a double to account for the second Shovel tally and after Fritz Walters had doubled to open the fifth, he came in to score the final run on a series of fielders' choices. The winners reached Bud Thorpe for six hits, but his effectiveness on the hill was greatly diminished by four fielding miscues by his mates

Two teams are now assured of spots in the Little World Series which is tentatively scheduled to get underway during the latter part of next week Marion Metal and Marion Power Shovel represent the Industrial Leagues with Epworth Methodist and St. Mary number 1 in the Church League and Smitty's All-Stars and Carl's Auto Parts in the Commercial loop must complete play - off games before the Series is set to roll In the second game staged at Garfield last night, the Marion Industries All-Star team defeated Smitty's All-Stars 11-4 in a benefit performance for the family of Russel Shockey

Annie Rooney — By Darrell McClure

—AN' THE MAYOR TOLD THE NICE ARCHITECT THAT WHAT I SAID CHANGED THE PICKLE FACTORY INTO A SCHOOLHOUSE. BUT I SAID I DIDN'T DO NOTHIN'—
YOU ONLY THINK YOU DID NOTHING. THOUSANDS OF YEARS AGO IN CHINA, ALL CROCKERY WAS HAND PAINTED—AND AN ARTIST WORKED ALL WEEK PAINTING THE DESIGN ON JUST ONE WHITE PLATE ---
ONE LUCKY DAY A FAMOUS ARTIST FINISHED PAINTING A BLUE-PLATE DESIGN AND PLACED THE PLATE ON A CHAIR—THEN THE ARTIST'S LITTLE BOY, WEARING A WHITE ROBE, CAME IN AND SAT DOWN ON THE CHAIR, NOT SEEING THE PLATE—
WHEN THE BOY STOOD UP, THE DESIGN WAS CLEARLY PRINTED ON HIS ROBE, AND PRINTING WAS INVENTED — NOW ALL FINE CROCKERY IS CALLED CHINA— ALL BECAUSE A LITTLE CHINESE BOY "DIDN'T DO NOTHIN'"

Yo-Yo Artist Yo-Yos, Fishes at Same Time

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (UP)—A youth walked up the pier extending into Lake Michigan at Grand Haven recently with two fishing lines and a yo-yo.

As several bewildered anglers looked on, the youth kept up his yo-yo practice and tied a fishing line first to one foot and then the other. Then he sat down and waited for the fish to bite—still practicing his yo-yo swinging.

Metal Detector Saves Crushing Machinery

CAMDEN, N. J. (UP) — Costly crushing machinery used to smash rock, coal and other materials can be ruined or disabled if metal passes through it, which has led to the development of an industrial gadget to prevent such damage.

The Industrial Equipment Section of the RCA Victor Division, Radio Corporation of America, has developed a metal detector which warns of the presence of metal in any substance to be crushed.

When unwanted metal passes through the metal detector, the device either flashes a warning light, rings bells or turns off the conveyor belt carrying the material into the crushing machine.
